As you watch Deborah Jack and Dr Martha Chinouya speak about HIV in the UK, put a tick next to the points on this chart when you hear each being spoken about.

STATEMENT	TICK
I think in the UK there are two communities most affected by HIV.
Within those communities about 1 in 20 people is living with HIV.
Last year (2010) about three quarters of the people diagnosed with HIV in the UK were either gay or bisexual men or Africans or both.
Here stigma for migrants is much more profound.
Migrants being seen as "health tourists".
HIV at the end of the day is family disease.
